

JAM Makes Investment in ClearVue Management, Inc.

August 7, 2009 – JAM Equity Partners, LLC and its affiliates (“JAM”) announced a $6.0 million investment in ClearVue Management, Inc. (“ClearVue”). ClearVue is a rapidly growing company that acquires, manages, services and liquidates distressed and undervalued residential mortgage loans and REO assets. Proceeds from the financing will be used to build out the company’s platform, acquire properties and small loan pools from third parties and general working capital needs.

ClearVue’s three principals have significant experience in the finance, lending and real estate markets. The team includes Dennis Regan, former EVP at Flex Point Funding; David Haddad, another former EVP at Flex Point Funding; and Matt Regan, President and CEO of R&R Real Estate, a real estate investment company specializing in distressed assets.

“ClearVue has assembled a complementary, hands-on management team with extensive mortgage banking and entrepreneurial experience,” said Mike Sekits, partner at JAM. “We believe the continued turmoil in the mortgage sector presents an excellent opportunity for ClearVue to build a valuable platform which can efficiently review, price, acquire and liquidate pools of distressed residential assets.”

“With my partners David Haddad and Matt Regan, we intend to profitably resolve the distressed assets we acquire at attractive discounts to face value,” said Dennis Regan, co-founder and CEO of ClearVue. “We are excited to partner with an entity such as JAM which has clearly recognized the tremendous opportunity created by the current mortgage market environment.”
